

System Dynamics Simulation Report (TODO)

This technical report presents a System Dynamics simulation model developed to support evidence-based decision-making in the circular chemical economy. The model captures the complex interactions between policy interventions, market dynamics, and consumer behaviours in the UK chemical sector. By integrating participatory modelling processes with scenario-based simulations, the project enables policymakers to test and refine strategies for promoting circular chemical products, enhancing recycling systems, and reducing environmental waste.